

Community of Christ

CHRIST'S MISSION, OUR MISSION

10 May 2018

Community of Christ and Graceland University are pleased to announce that Matthew J. Frizzell will become the new Community of Christ director of Human Resource Ministries, effective 1 July 2018. As he transitions from his current role as dean of Community of Christ Seminary at Graceland University, the church and Graceland will work together to ensure that high-quality experiences for seminary students continue.

As director of Human Resource Ministries, Matt will uphold the concerns and needs of church employees and volunteers around the world. He also will be a member of the World Church Leadership Council. Matt said, "It is a privilege to serve Community of Christ now in the capacity of director of Human Resources Ministries. My passion for the gospel and its mission in the world drives my hope and enthusiasm for serving the people of the church. I look forward to working alongside our ministers and families who serve and lead throughout the world."

Matt's past church assignments include roles as youth minister, campus minister, mission center president, and support specialist in several mission centers. He holds the office of high priest and serves on the church's Theology Formation Team and Standing High Council. His roles in field ministry, administration, and volunteer opportunities have given him a depth of experience across many aspects of the church. This knowledge of church structure and policy, coupled with Matt's deep desire to walk faithfully and live justly, will be an asset as he moves into this new role as an advocate for church staff members and volunteers. The church looks forward to Matt's continued ministry, vision, and leadership.
